

Unusually tall, she attracted the attention of all passers-by. Her beautiful mane was long and thick, her shiny fur sparkled in the sun.

The little pony was very friendly and curious. She always wanted to learn more about the world around her.

One day, when pony was walking in the woods, she met another pony that looked like her. She happily greeted a new acquaintance and started chatting with her.

Pony found out that her new friend also loves adventures and new discoveries very much. They decided to explore the forest together. They walked through the bushes and trees, enjoying the sounds of birds and the smells of flowers.
